DEVELOP SOIL WEALTH AIM OF HAITAIANS

Newest Phase of Occupation is Agricultural Department

FREEMAN AT HEAD

Cattle Raising Indutsry Would Flourish if Proper Development is Given

By Associated Press.

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti. Apr. 26.—The creation of a technical bureau of the Haitian Department of Agriculture is the newest phase of the American administration of the island. An extraordinary credit of $170,000 has been voted by the Council of State to carry it through the initial stages, and it has been placed under Dr. George F. Freeman, recently nominated by President Coolidge and confirmed by President Borno.

Dr. Freeman has just concluded an extended personal investigation on the agricultural potentialities of Haiti, and expresses great optimism regarding its future. Travelling for the greatest part on horseback, he visited and questioned the small farmers, the priests and gendarme officers, the local dignitaries and school teachers, and reports that he was most favorably impressed with the outlook.

He found large areas excellently adapted to the cattle-growing industry, with unlimited growth of perennial grasses. In the hill lands he found excellent soil for yields of grain, sugar cane, cotton, vegetable and fruits and, generally speaking, soils of good agricultural quality that, with proper treatment, will assure productivity on a profitable scale.

The climate impressed him as admirable for the production of all tropical field crops and fruits, and many stretches need but irrigation necessary for economic crops, while at present they are well adapted for the growing of cotton, dates and citrus fruits. The plateaus and mountain sides are capable without irrigation for general farming, fruit growing and vegetable raising. Between the mountain ranges were found level lands where large plantations of cotton, sugar cane and bananas are possible on a profitable scale.

With the new field practically virgin, Dr. Freeman plans to build his structure from the ground up. He will start with the nucleus of a complete organization and will develop from the Haitian people the personnel required, rather than by the employment of experts from outside sources. The organization will be moulded along the lines that have succeeded in the United States. Forestry will also come under his supervision, and a corps of trained foresters will be developed to handle this work.

HUMBARD BID ACCEPTED FOR STREET WORK

Wins in Competition With Two Other Bidders

FOR FIFTY BLOCKS

Work Costing $200,000 to be Done on Ten Year Payment Plan —Includes Alleys

Contract for fifty blocks of street improvements which will cost approximately $200,000 was let to the Humbard Construction company of Knoxville when the bids were opened at the city commissioners meeting this morning. Bids were also submitted by the Rofes Car company of Nashville, and E. A. Chilton, of London.

The Humbard bid was considered the lowest by an expert engineer after he had fully considered all of them In nearly every item it was lower than those submitted by the other two. John L. Humbard, president of the company, stated in his written communication that he had arranged for the sale of the ten-year payment bonds and that he could begin work within ten days after the execution of the contract.

The bid was accepted upon motion of Commissioner C. E. Cooke with the understanding that minor changes be made. He also recommended this morning, as he has previously, the construction of branch sewer line before the streets are paved. At the meeting Monday the type of material will be decided. Mayor J. H. Keenes, who is out of town, is expected to be present then.

Judge T. G. Anderson will draw up the contract for the work as soon as possible. This will provide that the property owners will have ten year, to pay for the improvement work.

The improvements for which contract was let includes some of the most important streets in the city, Exeter avenue, the Junction road on which traffic is always heavy, i among those which will be improved under the contract. A number of alleys in the business section are also included in it.

The ordinance providing for the payment of street improvements now in progress by the ten year payment plan passed a reading at the commissioners' meeting today.

The following is, in condensed form, the price of construction items submitted by the winning bidder:

Excavation, common earth, $1.50 cubic yard; excavation, rock, $5; "borrow," $1.50; overhaul, $.35, excavation for structures, $3; asphalt surfacing, square yard, $1.50; concrete pavement, square yard, $3.00; class A concrete, cubic yard; $32; reinforcement, pound, $.10; removing curb and gutter, lineal foot, $.25; overhaul curb and gutter, lineal foot, $.10; concrete curb, lineal foot, $.65; gutter, $.65; concrete radius, lineal foot, $1.50; asphalt paint, gallon, $.10; combined curb and gutter lineal foot, $1.30; excavation, refill surplus removal curb and gutter, lineal foot, $.15; resetting old curb, $.50, sidewalks square yd, $2.25; other work not specified for fifteen per cent each on labor and material. Concrete header, lineal foot, $.45; macadam in place, $1.25; scarifying and reshaping, square yard, $.10.

By Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, Apr. 26.—Judge Thompson today ordered the removal of Milton L. Lipschultz, son of a local liquor dealer, to Covington, Ky. to answer charges in connection with alleged liquor withdrawal for which Congressman John Langley and a number of others were indicted. Cases of Albert F. Slater, Secretary Williams McConel, former federal prohibition director of Pennsylvania and Hiram Benners, chief of hermet department during the McConel regime who also was indicted were held in abeyance. Witnesses at hearings testified $30,000 had been divided among Lipschutz, Elias H. Mortimer, government witnesses, in number of investigations and two other men. As a result of their procuring permits by which were withdrawn 1400 cases of whiskey from Belle of Anderson Distillery at Lawrenceburg, Ky.

WHO'LL BE THE RUNNING MATE OF PRESIDENT

Washington's Political Circles Are on Que Vive

PARTY PLANKS

Are Discussed—Coolidge's Wishes to Govern Largely the making of the Platform

Special to Daily News

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 26. The three principal items of interest now being discussed in Washington are: Who will be President Coolidge's running mate on the Republican ticket. Who will fill the important offices such as temporary and permanent chairmen at the Cleveland convention, and, last but not least, what planks the Republican party's platform will contain.

Trained political observers are of the opinion that the president's wishes in regard to the wording of the platform will be carried out. It is known that he is firm today, as he always has been, for the reduction of taxes; for the strictest economy in government affairs, for the passage of such legislation as will benefit the different classes of industry throughout the nation.

There is no doubt that the platform will contain a lengthy list of achievements of measures passed for the benefit of the country. This list now being compiled by party leaders is far larger than the average citizen realizes. This is due to the fact that the average citizen does not sit down with paper and pencil and total up the number of measures that have been passed during the administration.

The president has formally and informally impressed upon the House and Senate the necessity of the strictest economy in the expenditure of the people's money. He takes the position that no one has the right to be extravagant with money that is contributed by the people to the public treasury; he feels that it is his duty to provide the country with an economical administration and the politicians will find that it is useless to try and change his attitude in these matters.

Knew of Two Checks for $2,000 Each —Heard Conversations With Senator Wheeler

Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 26. H. B. Glosser, formerly employed in the office of Gordon Campbell, Montana oil operator, indicted with Senator Wheeler, testified before the Senate investigation committee today, that in January, 1923, he heard a conversation between Campbell and Wheeler in which they talked of getting Campbell's oil permits. "It is fixed up in Washington," Glosser testified Campbell said, "If Wheeler could get this fixed up in Washington we can afford to cut a lot of money, or something like that." Glosser said Wheeler made no reply at that time but "left us under the impression that he could fix it up at Washington because of influence he had there. Glosser said he knew of two checks for $2,000 each, which Campbell gave to Wheeler.

Deadlock Continued In Ky. Coal Strike

CENTRAL CITY, Ky., Apr. 26.—The first week of the coal strike, called by President Jackson, of District 23, has ended with no apparent change in the deadlock existing between union officials and mine operators.

The strike has been orderly, and no threats of violence have been heard.

Under an agreement reached by the joint committee, operators may sign independent agreements by agreeing to pay the existing wage scale, but to date none of the mines has attempted to resume operations.

THEFT OF WINE CAUSES SENSATION

Rhur Occupation Nothing to This—Reward is Offered for Return

BERLIN, April 26. The theft recently of a lot of Rhine wine of the vintage of 1811 created more of a sensation and excitement than usually attend a diamond robbery or murder.

The wine belonged to a wealthy family, which formerly owned its own vineyards, and had been handed down for generations.

Rewards were offered for the return of even part of the wine and detectives assigned to the case took up the watch at antique shops.

SPEEDERS MAY BE SUBJECTED TO DETECTOR

Watch Your Breath—X-Ray Specialists Will Know

PROVE A DRUNK

California Man Has New "Booze-Detector" for Foil of Reckless Drivers

Associated Press

SAN FRANCISCO, April 26.—Motorists charged with intoxication have caused numerous deaths in this vicinity recently, and in the campaign against reckless driving Dr. O. W. Ginsburg, an X-ray specialist, has offered the police a "booze detector."

The machine, according to Dr. Ginsburg, has been known to physicians for some time and is called the metabolar. It is a simple apparatus that determines the quantity of oxygen consumed by a patient. When a man is drunk, and how to prove it, has long been a problem in courts. This is Dr. Ginsburg's explanation of how to apply the metabolar to the question of intoxication:

"It is known to medical science that a person under the influence of liquor consumes far greater quantities of oxygen that he does normally. This is natural, for alcohol is a great heat producer and calls for great quantities of oxygen to equalize the consumption of heat. All that is necessary to determine the degree of intoxication is to find out the heat production going on in the body by the intake of oxygen. The metabolar does this. The suspect is fed pure oxygen through a nozzle. The machine registers how much is taken into the system. Comparison with the normal intake, which can be made when the suspect is sober, will establish beyond a doubt whether he was under the influence of liquor at the time of his arrest."

The city authorities have under consideration Dr. Ginsburg's plan to instal metabolar machines at all police stations.

It formerly was the custom here for drivers suspected of intoxication to be taken to the emergency hospital where they were examined by a physician, who signed a certificate expressing his opinion of their condition. At present however, the police take such a prisoner direct to headquarters, where, if he is held to show evidence of drunkenness, he is booked on a charge of driving while intoxicated, a felony. Neither method has proved satisfactory in checking the evil, according to police officials. They point out that often men too far gone in liquor to drive safely are able to appear sober when subjected to medical examination, and also that the opinion of policemen usually is discounted when the cases are brought up in court.

Dean Offers no Comment on Resignations

LEXINGTON, Ky., Apr. 26.—Dean Thomas P. Cooper, of the College of Agriculture, today declined to make a statement regarding the policies of the college which are said to have led to the resignation of three of the most prominent women professors at the institution.

"I prefer not to make a statement at thi stime, pending official action," said Dean Cooper. "After I have conferred with President McVey and possibly with the Board of Trustees, the university may issue a statement. The resignation of Miss Sweeney, Miss Cornell and Miss Eichelberger came as a complete surprise to me."

The three teachers mentioned, are quoted as having given as their reason for quitting the staff of the Home Economics Department the policy of the College of Agriculture with regard to methods to be employed in teaching the subject and the sphere its activities should occupy.

ITALY FAVORS ACCEPTANCE OF ENTIRE REPORT

Great Britain and Belgium Urge Acceptance—Italy Declares It is "Indivisible"

By Associated Press.

PARIS, Apr. 26.—Replies of four big allied powers to the reparations commission communication regarding Dawes report that all of them accept experts' findings wholly. France alone raises question of procedure while Italy declares report to be "indivisible which should be taken in its entirety without conditions or qualifications."

The Belgian reply says the government is prepared to accept the experts' conclusions with view to a practical and equitable settlement of the reparations problem and hopes the reparations commission will lose no time in preparing the measures for the prompt operation of the plan. The British reply says Great Britain "will do everything in its power to practically effect the commission's recommendations."

Associated Press

In official circles, the French relay to the reparations communication is interpreted to mean the existing measures in the Ruhr cannot be withdrawn or modified until Germany puts the experts plan into execution, including the initiation of a bank of issue and constitution of the railway company proposed in the plan for delivery of necessary industrial debentures and the adoption by the Reichstag of legislation necessary to put Germany's finances in order.

BILLBOARDS OUT IN MINNESOTA

Beautiful Highway Campaign Removes Half Million Signs—R. R. Takes Hand

Associated Press

MINNEAPOLIS, April 26.—The highways in Minesonta are to be advertisingless and unmarred by billboards. Authorities in Dane county, which has ordered all signs down by May 1, phrase the keynote of the State wide campaign thus:

"Unrestricted outdoor advertising, as it is developing and spreading along our highways is not only offensive but in many cases a menace to the safety of the public and a mar to the beauty of our community.

The State Highway department has removed more than a half a million signs from Minesota highways, in a campaign in which newspapers, railroads, housewives and civic organizations have united. A state law provides for a 66-foot right-of-way unmarred by signs, applying to the seven thousand mile state road system.

The Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railway company announces it will revoke all permits for billboards along the road right-of-way encircling Lake Calhoun, one of Minneapolis' beauty spots.

Housewives of Crystal Bay, Lake Minnetonka, near Minneapolis, have voted to boycott all articles advertised on billboards in their vicinity.

According to the Minneapolis Journal "it is to be hoped that these examples will lead to further orders restoring scenic beauties now ruined by roadside boardings. Owners of vacant property along the main travelled roads may well co-operate in banning the billboards to which they have given asylum at small rentals. They have thus become accomplices in the garish crimes against the eye that are so freely committed in city and country."

TRUE VIEW OF PROHIBITION

Some writers return to Europe and report very adversely on what they saw in America of the workings of the Eighteenth Amendment. Mr. Lloyd George saw the other and the greater side of the question. His view is correct, and this is what he said: "America is the country which got the most out of the great war—not gold, but prohibition. I saw a little of prohibition. I went to America with the usual European prejudice against it, learning that it was demoralizing America and that there was more liquor than ever. That is not true, not in the least. There are some men who get it. But I believe it is mostly very bad liquor. Some have already been poisoned, and others are getting frightened for fear that their turn will come next. That generation will disappear. The vast majority are not drinking. The worst form of repeal that is threatened is a return to light wines and beer, but they will never have saloons again. The only unemployed in America are the jailers. The children of America never saw such times as they have now."—Christian Advocate.

DIVERSE VIEWS OF SPORTS

Many people, the joke-smiths and the cartoonists take great delight in poking fun at the golfers. Those at the poking end consider it a meaningless pastime. The motorist considers walking a useless waste of effort, and the hiker, luxuriating in his brisk walk, can not appreciate the joy of motoring. Opinion is divided between baseball and football as the greatest American sport. Tennis players seldom play golf, and vice versa. Those who favor summer sports frequently are not attracted by winter games of pool, bowling, cards and basketball.

Thus it would seem that views on sports are as divergent as the sports themselves. First there are groups which consider sports of all shapes and descriptions of little or no value either for health or pastime. Opposing it are two more groups which in turn oppose each other. One of these latter recommends sports for exercise and health. The other considers sports only in the light of recreation.

Beyond the shadow of a doubt there are few men, women and children in town who do not participate in some sport. Every sport has its following. Each following credits its favorite pastime with superior powers of exercise and recreation. That is natural among patriotic people. But which sport is the perfect or nearest perfect can never be determined and it is of little consequence. What we are concerned with is healthful exercise and recreation. Every game possesses these qualities in varying degrees. As long as everybody is getting exercise and recreation in some form or other there is nothing to be desired.—Ashland Independent.

FOREST FIRES DAMAGE TREES

We are now nearing the end of National Forest Protection week. By an odd and unhappy coincidence, destruction of hundreds of young trees is in progress in the vicinity of Middlesboro during the period that all of us were urged to bend every effort toward their conservation.

Streaks of lurid flames, miles in extent, are seen nightly in the surrounding hills. Each blaze of light which coils sinuously through our beautiful mountains and noble forests is a vivid monument to some person's carelessness or maliciousness. A lighted match, thrown thoughtlessly into the dry leaves, is sufficient to start a fire that will mean the destruction of myriads of young trees, a waste that will take years to replenish.

Ours is said to be a wasteful nation. In no way perhaps is our profligacy demonstrated so clearly as our wanton destruction of timber. We complain at the continued advance in the price of lumber, yet stand idly by and witness the annihilation of our forests year after year.

The United States government has long recognized the value of forest conservation and is taking steps to encourage it. Yet the present generation will see the advent of a timberless age unless drastic laws regarding tree protection are made and enforced.

The time will surely come when the willful or careless destroyer of trees will be regarded as a criminal, a person dangerous to society whose offense is akin to that of arson.

Nature has given us a state blessed with virgin timberlands which, with proper care and frequent attention, will last throughout the ages. It behooves us to guard well this treasure and to use the same precautions against forest fires that we exercise in our own homes.

NATIONALISM IS NOTE IN TURKEY

Move to Rid State of all Foreign Names—Greek Names Red Rag to Turk

By Associated Press.

ANGORA, Turkey, Apr. 26.—Rabid Turkish Nationalists who are anxious to rid Turkey of all foreign names and to eliminate all foreign words from the Turkish language, have struck a snag in the name of the capital itself. Angora is only a slight modification of the old Greek name Ancyra.

As Greek names are the worst sort of red rags to fire-eating Turkish Nationalists, many of the younger leaders wanted to change the name of the capital. Tunaly Kilmi Bey, the poet, has been especially active in the campaign for the eradication of Greek names, but less idealistic and more mature party men apparently have a feeling that there are many really important affairs of state which should be attended to before a wholesale alteration of names is attempted, something which may result in great confusion.

Greek names of unimportant places have been ruthlessly scrapped. The Prince's Islands in the Sea of Marmora, off Constantinople, which bore the Greek names Porti, Halki and Pinkipo are now called Kinali, Burgas and Heybely. Street names also have been changed quite generally in Constantinople. In Kadikoi, which lies on the opposite side of the Bosphorus from Constantinople, 21 Greek street names were altered to Turkish names.

A congress has been called which will meet in Angora to consider the purification of the Turkish language by the elimination of Arabic and Persian words, with a view to making Turkish the universal means of communication for all Mohammedans.

LISTEN HERE, DAD—

Hal Cochran's DAILY POEM

SAY, Dad, as you sit in your rest-a-bit chair and dreamily gaze into space, your thoughts seem to come to me, out of the air, or maybe from looks on your face.

You're scanning the past, and the days yet to be, jes' pondering over your life. You're giving a thought, no doubt then, just to me and then to my mother,—your wife.

Has everything been just the way we'd desire? Have most of our wishes come true? Has life, as we've lived it, been really afire through the things that you've struggled to do?

No wonder you wonder; why, shucks, you're a dad and all dads keep thinkin' I guess. It's human to judge by what kinfolks have had as to whether you've been a success.

Now, listen here, Dad, I am just startin' out on my battles with good times and strife. If I can do half what you've done, there's no doubt I'll be mighty well pleased with my life.

"Ain't it cute!"

Mr. Mann would almost purr as he watched Mrs. Mann take the first Mann baby over her knee for the regular bath.

Of course Mrs. Mann had been well supplied with instructions on how best to bathe the baby.

For a short time the baby should be sponged with water at a temperature of 100 degrees. Be careful to have a special cloth for body and for face.

Watch out for the tender eyes. If there is any sign of inflammation, summon the doctor. Boric acid solution may be used if any sign of eye secretion is found. If the nose becomes stopped, a boric acid solution again is advisable.

After the first month the temperature of the water may be lowered to 95 degrees, and then gradually reduced to 85 degrees. After the bath it is well to sponge the child off with water at about 75 degrees.

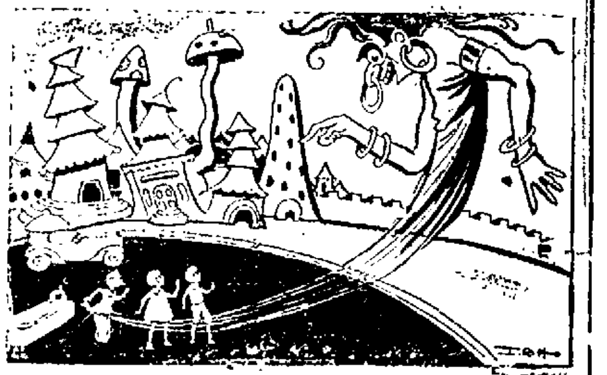
Adventures of The Twins

By Olive Roberts Barton

NO. 8—THE CITY OF ALLADIN



Suddenly an enormous genie appeared in the air.

"Where to next?" asked Mister Muggs, as Nancy and Nick stepped into the magic automobile. They were going to have another adventure in Once Upon a Time Land.

"Let's go to see Aladdin," said Nick.

"Aladdin!" cried Mister Muggs. "Why I had almost forgotten about him. We'll go to see him at once and ask him if he still has the wonderful lamp that he found in a cave."

So the little car came at last to a gorgeous Chinese city, where the houses had rubies for door knobs, emeralds for roof tiles and diamonds for window panes.

But before they had passed the first gate the little car stopped stony still and wouldn't move.

"Well, I declare!" said Mister Muggs as he pulled and tugged and hammered and shook the magic automobile. "This is the very first time I've had any trouble with this machine. Magic automobiles are supposed never to get out of order."

He looked into the radiator.

"Why, it's dry as a bone!" he cried. "That's what's wrong."

"There's a trough," said Nick, "and I see a queer crooked little kettle near it. I'll go and bring you some water."

Which he did.

He was just about to toss the queer little kettle of a thing away when Mister Muggs said quickly, "Here, let me see that thing."

Nick passed it over and the fairyman looked it over closely.

"If I'm not mistaken, this is magic," he remarked. And he gave it a rub with his coat sleeve.

Suddenly an enormous genie appeared in the air, about the ugliest creature you ever saw in your life.

"What is your wish? I am here do your bidding, I and the other slav of the lamp,' he said in thunderi voice.

"The wicked magician from Afri came in the night and stole the la from Aladdin. But robbers attack him as he left the city and took all loot. When they saw the lamp th thought it was worthless and thr it into you ditch. Whoever posses the lamp owns its slaves also. T boy who picked it up is now our ma ter."

"Oh, I don't want you," stammer poor Nick. "I'm much obliged just t same."

"But we can make you king of t earth," said the genie, "and build y cities more magnificent than this."

"No—no, thank you," said Ni "If you'll just give us a push, we w take the lamp back to Aladdin. You better stay with him. I'm too little be a king anyway, and I wouldn't kn what to do with a lot of cities."

Aladdin was overjoyed at the retu of his precious lamp.

The three visitors spent the d with him and the princess and had fine time.

Reception for Episcopal Rector

Members of the Ladies Guild of St. Mary's Episcopal church gave a reception for the Rev. and Mrs. A. P. Price at the home of Mr. A. B. Gloster on Edgewood road last night. The dining room was beautifully decorated in wisteria and redbud. Decorations for the remainder of the house were dogwood and redbud. Those standing in the receiving line were Mr. Gloster, Mr. [illegible]ouise Hearitze and the Rev. and Mrs. Price. Those assisting in the dining room were Mrs. W. I. DuPont, Mrs. Charles Rhodes, Mrs. John Miller, Miss Mildred Kerr, Miss Lillian Seay, Miss Henrietta Gordon, Miss Alice Gloster, Miss Loretta Arnold and Miss Virginia Gunn. About seventy five guests were present. A salad course was served.

THE LAMB

Little lamb, who made thee?
Dost thou know who made thee,
Gavest thee life, and bade thee feed
By the stream and o'er the mead;
Gave thee clothing of delight,
Softest clothing, woolly, bright,
Gave thee such a tender voice,
Making all the vales rejoice?
Little lamb, who made thee?
Dost thou know who made thee?

Little lamb, I'll tell thee;
Little lamb, I'll tell thee
He is called by thy name,
For He calls himself a Lamb
He is meek, and He is mild,
He became a little child
I a child, and thou a lamb,
We are called by His name
Little lamb, God bless thee!
Little lamb, God bless thee!

SMOTHERING SPELLS

Lady Says She Suffered from a Burning Sensation, Headache, Dizziness, Until She Took Black-Draught.

Signal, Miss.—"For a year or longer I had indigestion, and I had it bad," says Mrs. E. S. Holman, of this place. "Everything I ate hurt me. I would have burning in my stomach and smothering spells, and after meals feel right dizzy. My head would begin to ache, and I would want to lie down, but felt I couldn't for I would smother.

"Unless one has had such trouble, they don't know what it is. I was talking to a neighbor one day and told her how I had been affected. She told me it was indigestion and to try Black Draught, which I did. I took a few large doses, and then a pinch after meals, and for full four months now I haven't had indigestion. I eat whatever I please and when I please, but keep up the Black Draught—just an occasional dose."

When you have a feeling of discomfort after meals try the suggestion above. Thousands of people have found that Black Draught promotes [illegible] by stimulating the liver and stomach to perform their normal functions.

HOUSE COMBINES PRACTICAL FEATURES WITH ECONOMY

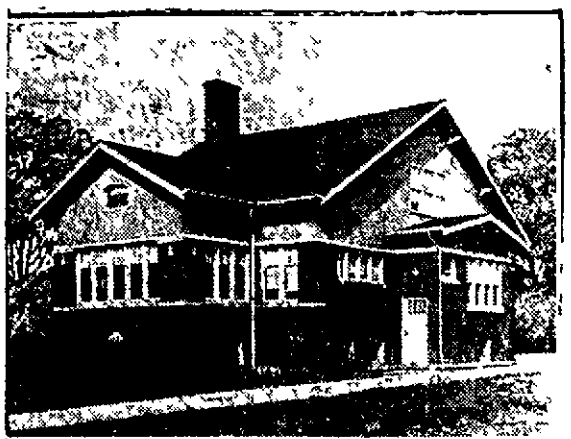
SECOND FLOOR PLAN



FRONT VIEW AND PLANS OF 6 ROOM SEMI-BUNGALOW, SUGGESTING FURNITURE LAYOUT

Homes of brick and stucco of this story and a half, or semi-bungalow, type are popular in many sections of the United States because of the combination of practical features with comparative economy of construction.

Houses of this type although not particularly of inviting aspect when they stand alone combine readily with surrounding foliage and are delightful in proper settings, particularly if care is used in the selection of a decorative roofing material.

The height of the first floor above the ground line insures an exceptionally light and airy basement. Notice that the entry door is on the ground level, and that the first floor is gained by means of a short flight of stairs in the entry hall.

This entry way gives access to the living room, the dining room and the stairs to the second floor. Both the living room and dining room are of comfortable dimensions. The size of the living room is augmented both in appearance and utility by the large sun porch. The large opening between the two makes them virtually one large room. The fireplace is a feature which few homebuilders will be willing to do without.

The dining room is well lighted and of pleasing rectangular proportions and the kitchen is planned to give the utmost convenience to the housewife. Note that provision is made for icing the refrigerator from the outside and that the pantry is well lighted.

The first floor bedroom is a feature which will appeal to many families.

The two chambers on the second floor are of good size and have roomy closets.

The cost of the home may be between $7500 and $8000 depending on choice of materials, the distance of its location from sources of material supply and the condition of the local labor market. In many sections of the country the figures will vary more than those given.

AIR SQAUDRON LACKING IN ARMY OF JAPAN

Forces of Mikado Are Low in Equipment, Aerial Forces

WILL MODERNIZE

Military Men of Island Empire Have Extensive Plans for Complete Reorganization of the Army

Associated Press

TOKIO, April 25.—The leaders of the Japanese army are planning to modernize the organization. Lieutenant-General Kazushige Ugaki, minister of war, has appointed a commission with the vice-minister of war, Lieutenant-General Ichisuke Tsuno, as chairman, to study the question of bringing the equipment of the land forces up to date. Its report will be ready by March of 1925. In connection with this work a party of Japanese army officers has gone abroad to study modern organization in France, Great Britain and the United States.

It is pointed out that generally the equipment of the Japanese army has changed little since the Russo-Japanese war. At the same time it is realized that the question of money is one of the most difficult involved in the problem. Earthquake reconstruction is keeping the army figures to a low figure. The modernization program in the beginning, must be paid for largely out of economies effected within the army.

Japan's military leader consider their greatest deficiency to be in aviation. The army air forces now consist of six flying squadrons. The high command would like to double this number, although the problem of training enough aviators is a serious one, probably more serious than the shortage of funds at present, for the Japanese have not proved themselves good aviators, and the high casulaty rate among flying officers does not make the service attractive to young men seeking a military career. However, the authorities are considering an aviation expansion program to spread over approximately five years.

Chemical warfare is almost a closed book to the Japanese army. Although Japan has no intention of nullifying the Washington submarine and poisonous gas treaty, her army leaders plan extensive research into the employment of and defense against the latest chemical weapons.

Japan is without tanks, to all practical purposes. A few were brought back to Japan after the war for study purposes, but there is no branch in the Japanese army corresponding to the tank corps of the American and European forces. Motor transport also is backward in the Japanese army. The use of armored cars also will receive consideration from General Tsuno's committee.

Machine guns and automatic rifles still are comparatively little employed in Japan's army, and one of the chief duties of the party now in Europe will be the study of such weapons. In field artillery there is believed to be considerable room for modernization.

In all discussion of the proposed army program Japanese officers insist on the non-aggressive intentions behind it. It is stated that Japan merely desires to bring her army to something like the standards held by the other great powers, who learned at first hand the bitter lessons of the great war.

By Associated Press.

HAMBURG, Germany, Apr. 26.—A flock of crows attacked, killed and ate a hare near Tarp, according to observers who produced bits of fur and bone as proof. They say that they saw a single crow discover the hare in an open field. The bird flew about the animal and called frantically until it had recruited twelve more and the flock then descended on the hare and pecked it to death in a few minutes.

EDUCATION IN CHINA CAUSE OF INSULT

White Prestige in Land of Rising Sun Is Lowered

BANDITRY GROWS

Special Consideration Given Foreign Residents in Past Grows Less and Less

By Associated Press.

PEKING, Apr. 26.—Two recent incidents, one involving an assault upon a foreigner and the other an alleged invasion of ceded rights, following as they do upon a long succession of more serious events growing out of the prevalence of banditry, have served to accentuate a widespread consciousness among foreigners residing in north China that the special consideration formerly enjoyed by them at the hands of Chinese, both officials and civilians, is definitely waning.

Various reasons for such "loss of prestige," as it usually is called, have been advanced by old residents in the country. The favorite one is the loss by several nations of previously enjoyed rights of extra-territoriality. By some it is said to be due to growing enlightenment on western methods as a result of an increasing number of foreign educated Chinese engaged in govenmental, military and economic affairs. Others attribute it to belief on the part of the Chinese that foreign nations under prevailing disturbed conditions are in no mood to maintain their former privileged status by force.

The first of the incidents in question, and one which aroused tremendous indignation in British circles in Peking, occurred recently when K. E. Bessel, British traffic manager employed by the Peking-Mukden railway at Fengtai, was savagely attacked because of a controversy over the attaching of a special military car to the regular train from Peking. After protesting that it was contrary to regulations, and while in the act of conceding to the demand under menace of violence, Bessel was knocked down by armed soldiers. While unable to defend himself he was kicked by the man, described by him as an officer, in charge of the car.

The more recent occurrence was the disregard, wittingly or otherwise, by Feng Yu-hsiang, the Christian general and commander of the Peking garrison, of traffic regulations in the Legation Quarter and the striking and disarming of a Chinese policeman employed by the foreign administration of the legation reservation.

The regulations call for a dimming of motor lights and moderation of speed. General Feng, en route to dine with Dr. Jacob Gould Schurman, American minister, passed through the main thoroughfare at high speed and with glaring lights. He resented being stopped. Outriders on the footboard of the motor car hustled the offending policeman out of the way and struck him when he resisted.

General Feng himself got out of the car and took the baton away from the policeman. He is said to be an old offender, having been previously cautioned about speeding in the legation precincts. The administration of the Quarter is considering what steps to take to enforce their regulations.

Interest in National Game Spreads in Schools of the Islands

MANILA, Apr. 26.—The national baseball championship under the supervision of the bureau of education was won recently by the team representing the Manila North High School, last year's champions. Eight teams contested, seven representing provinces or districts outside Manila.

The teams in the national championship won the right to play by capturing the championship in their respective athletic association.

Officials of the bureau of education say that these national contests have increased interest in baseball to such an extent that every public school of any size is now represented by a team.

L. M. U. Cops Game From Local Boys

The L. M. U. second team defeated the high school team yesterday afternoon 10 to 1. This was the high school's second defeat of the season. Burch pitched good ball for several innings but was given poor support in the field, most of L. M. U.'s runs being due to errors. Lyons pitched the last three innings and pitched very good ball. The second team was put in at the last of the game and given an opportunity to display its wares.

The track team went to Pineville this afternoon for the first track meet of the season. The boys have been practicing hard for several weeks and are hopeful of carrying off first honors in this meet. The boys who show up well in this meet will probably be sent to the state meet in Lexington which will be held next Friday and Saturday.

The dated for the Kiwanis Oratorical contest has been postponed until May 15 so that more contestants will have time to prepare orations. Severl students of the Junior and Senior classes are preparing orations for this contest.

Fear That Jap Will Win Title Alarms U. S. Golfers

BY JOE WILLIAMS

It is said that when the news reached St. Andrews telling of the victory of Gene Sarazen, an Italian, in the American open golf championship two years ago, the dour Scots gathered in horrified groups and asked gravely, one of the other, "What is the old game coming to anyway?"

It was bad enough to have an American-born golfer come over to Sandwich and win the British open championship from the field of Scots and Britons, as Mr. Hagen of Rochester, N. Y., did in 1922, but he thought of an Italian winning at Scotia's reverent pastime. That was too much indeed.

But apparently the worst is in transit. The ominous shadow of one Rokuro Akahoshi has fallen athwart the bunkered links of the world, as we fancy writers say, and for the first time in the history of the game a full-blooded Japanese is grouped with the championship contenders.

Akahoshi, an amateur who has only been playing since 1919, gave the gay resorters something to speculate about recently when he walked away with the annual spring Pinehurst championship, winning from a high-class field, and winning in a high-class manner.

There were more than 300 starters in the scramble. Akahoshi qualified in fifth place with a total that was close enough to par to be called respectable. In the first round he drew and whipped Larry Patton of Boston, a mighty fine golfer. The match was decided on the nineteenth green.

In the second round the Japanese star scored an easy triumph over E. C. Beall of Uniontown, former holder of the north and south championship. Bill McPhail of the Boston district was next. Mc Phail will be remembered as the youngest who all but downed Bobby Jones of Brooklyn two years ago. Akahoshi took him over neatly.

Donald Parsons of Ohio, veteran tournament campaigner, and defending Pinehurst champion, was no match for Akahoshi in the finals and was ushered back to the showers on a 4 and 3 count.

The Japanese played superb golf throughout the tournament and except for a sporadic wildness with his short iron shots looked the part of a genuine champion. You are likely to hear more of him in the big tournaments this summer.

Piscatorial Artists Rest Until June 15

Local piscatorial artists, many of whom lift their choicest prizes from Tennessee streams, are warned by the game warden of that state that the closed season on game fish has begun. "It is unlawful to fish for game fish so unlawful to have game fish in your from April 15 to June 15 and it is also possession," C. P. Williams, Tennessee game warden, says.

The warden states further that it is a felony to dynamite fish and that seining is forbidden at all times. The closed season began with the spawning period. If left alone until this is passed, infinitely more fish will be left for the future.

Pineville Golfers Offer Full Support

At a meeting of the directors of the Middlesboro Country Club yesterday R. M. Watt, of Pineville, state vice-president, announced that 100 per cent of the Pineville members would enter the state tournament which will be held here June 25-28.

This will mean that, whether or not the members compete, their financial support will be given. The officers decided to procure the trophies for the meet. These will be ordered at once and should be received here within the next ten days.

All the golfers are enthusiastic over the prospect of entering the state tournament here. Detailed plans for the meet are being worked out by the officers and directors.

Congo to Have Airplane Service

By Associated Press.

LONDON, Apr. 26.—Designed to fly at 100 miles an hour with 800 horsepower engines, carry 14 passengers and complete the journey between London and Brussels in less than two hours, four giant airplanes of British design are nearly completed at a factory near Brussels. A larger type of the same machine is being built with three engines, for a Belgium air service up the River Congo.

URGE WOMEN TO ACTIVE WORK IN PARTIES

President of N. L. of U. V. Talks to Buffalo Convention

MORE INTEREST

The Importance of True Political Foundation Is Urged on the League

By Associated Press.

BUFFALO, Apr. 26.—Addressing the National League of Women voters at its fifth annual convention here tonight Mrs. Maud Wood Park, its president, said that details of the League's immediate program must be regulated by the fact that a national election was impending. She urged upon women the importance of taking part in the legitimate activities of their parties. Planks covering the issues most important to women should be prepared and presented to the platform committe of the political parties and to the candidates.

"In all the efforts of the League," Mrs. Park said, "it has had the advantage of the opportunity afforded by the enfranchisement at one time of approximately 20,000,000 women. In the nature of the case, this opportunity will last only a few years and it can never come again. Only for a few years shal we have the possible advantage of an enormous number of new voters, untrammeled by carelessly made political affiliations, with no bad political tendencies to undo and therefore free to form good political habits from the start.

"To be sure many of these well meaning new voters had not been accustomed to think in terms of government, many of them were ignorant of public affairs and profoundly indifferent to their new opportunity. They needed awakening and a chance to learn. Large numbers of them need it still. That is why so much of the recent unfavorable criticism of what women have done with their votes is superficial."

Mrs. Park said she looked for increasing interest and activity on the part of women voters and a larger part in the coming national conventions than they had four years ago, and believed that woman's distinctive point of view would become increasingly important in public affairs.

During the past year the League workers had been preparing for a nation-wide campaign to get out the woman vote this year and she hoped it would result in an increase of at least 25 per cent over the vote of four years ago.

"Unless the league is to make radical changes in its purpose and program," the speaker continued, "our own part in the high undertaking of applied democracy is reasonably clean. First of all, we have to make more women alive to their great new privilege. In the second place, we must see to it that the girls coming of age to vote are enlisted year by year in the interest of good government. In the third place, we must all turn to young and old, to see to it that the next generation gets a good chance at civic education.

"Next to education in importance on our program, and second only because it depends upon education, comes international cooperation to prevent war. To many of our members this form of work transcends all others in interest, since without peace, constructive civilization is impossible.

"There is another suggestion for future work that fires the imagination of a good many League members," Mrs. Park said. "This is the idea of a campaign to put more women into public office. To my mind, such an effort is justified only by one of two premises. That women are to be chosen who are better qualified for office than are their men opponents, or else that the qualifications being equal, more women in public office are desirable because women have distinctive opinions in regard to public affairs that men cannot express."

TWO ROBBERIES HERE LAST NIGHT

Billiard Pool Room and Service Barber Shop are [illegible]

The Billiard pool room and the Service barber shop were entered and robbed of money and several articles of value by unknown parties last night.

Entrance was gained by breaking the lock of the front door. Twenty dollars were taken from a desk drawer in the pool room and a quantity of cigarettes, cigars, chewing gum and other merchandise was taken, according to John Cakones, proprietor.

Anthony Bisceglia, proprietor of the barber shop, says that a number of barber tools and a quantity of supplies were taken from his room. He discovered the robbery when he opened his shop at 6 o'clock this morning. Nearly all the cabinet drawers were pulled out and scattered over the room and in the adjoining pool room.

Mr. Cakes closed his establishment at 11:15 last night. The robbery was committed some time between that time and 6 a. m. this morning. Indications were that the housebreaker left at the rear of the pool room. Officers were notified of the occurrence this morning and are working on the case.

SHE HAS MONEY GALORE BUT CAN'T SPEND IT

GEORGEANNA RUSIN

LORAIN, O., April 25. Georgeanna Rusin, 12, has $300,000, but her mother won't let her have a cent of it.

"The money might spoil her," her mother explains. "Wealth does not bring happiness."

So Georgeanna dresses like her play mates, attends public school and does the same home work she did before she obtained the $300,000. Georgeanna—probably one of the country's richest girls of her age—must remain the daughter of housekeeper, without a car or governess.

Georgeanna's mother was housekeeper for George L. Buell, wealthy real estate dealer. Buell never had a child of his own, so he lavished his affection on Georgeanna. When he died he left the greater part of his fortune to the child.

"I wish it had never happened," says her mother. "I live in terror that my little girl will not remain the same Georgeanna."

WAR AIRMAN IS KILLED IN GERMANY

Peace Time Flight Fatal to Pioneer—Made Altitude Record in 1913

By Associated Press.

KASSEL, Germany, Apr. 25.—Otto Linnekogel, the famous war pilot who recently broke his neck in a fall from a height of 90 feet, apparently was a victim of nervous collapse. He had not flown for six years but decided to take out a new machine and met death on his first flight.

Linnekogel was extremely uneasy and showed himself to be out of training when he entered the airplane. As the machine left the ground spectators were horrified to see him rise from his seat when the car was about 90 feet in the air, and jump out.

Linnekogel was one of the pioneer German fliers and created a great sensation in 1913 by flying to an altitude of 22,276 feet.

V. F. W. to Have Open Meet Friday Night

Dewey Guy Post No. 1169, Veterans of Foreign Wars, will have an open meeting at the city hall at 7:30 o'clock Friday night, according to Commander A. D. DeBusk. The general public is invited to attend this meeting.

An enthusiastic and well attended meeting was held at the K. P. hall Wednesday night. Plans for further increasing the membership of the organization were discussed. Pineville veterans who had signified their intention of joining forces with the local post were not present.

Wet Ground Causes Track Postponement

The track meet which was scheduled to take place between the M. H. S. team and that of Pineville high school this afternoon was postponed on account of the rain which rendered the grounds unfit for the event.

The meet will take place at Pineville Monday if the ground is in good shape. Boys who acquit themselves creditably in the meet will be allowed to go to Lexington for the state meet Friday and Saturday.

The next baseball game will probably be played with Pineville here Tuesday. Definite arrangements have not been made for this, according to Coach J. T. Kilpatrick.

CROOK CAPTURED; CONFESSES CRIME

Stole Gun from Officer—Committed Burglaries Here and in Pineville

R. F. Kelly, alias King, is in jail at the city hall charged with a number of cases of housebreaking and larceny. Officers say he admits entering nearly a dozen Middlesboro and Pineville homes and stealing articles of considerable value. He was captured on Lothbury avenue yesterday morning by members of the police department.

Among the robberies which the man is reported to have confessed are: Stealing a watch and gun from the home of Dr. D. T. VanKirk, entering and robbing the homes of Boyd Rice and Guy Patterson at Pineville, stealing jewelry from the home of W. S. Douglas, robbing the home of John Slemp and stealing a pistol from Deputy Sheriff Jim Mitchell and a necklace from the home of a local woman.

Officers believe that he has committed many other similar offenses here and elsewhere which he has failed to mention. His description corresponds with that of a man who entered a home at Knoxville recently and shot at the inmates.

The loot which he obtained from his multitudinous ramblings was sold at Norton, Bluefield, St. Charles and other places. Officers are now at work recovering much of the stolen property. The only item which he known, led to his capture. sold in Middlesboro, so far as is

This was a pistol belonging to Deputy Mitchell. He attempted to sell it at an establishment on Nineteenth street but the proprietor, realizing that the gun was worth much more than the man asked, suspected it was stolen property and did not buy. Kelly succeeded in selling it to another local man. Officers were furnished with a description of the man who sold the gun and, within a short time, they arrested him on Lothbury avenue.

He at first denied the accusation but later admitted the robberies, officers say. He says he is twenty years old and that he escaped from a reformatory in Virginia some time ago. He will be given an examining trial in the city court soon.

LOOKING AT IT FROM YOUR SIDE

ONE-SIDED transactions have no place in this bank. We believe in looking at both sides—yours as well as our own.

OUR chief concern is to please YOU, not ourselves; and we will go as far as sound banking practice will let us in giving you that kind of service.

INSTEAD of doing as little as we can for our customers, our idea is to do as much as we can.

THEREFORE nothing that you may ask us to do in the way of serving you will ever be regarded as a "bother."

WE are here to serve you, and nothing will please us so much as to have you give us the opportunity.

GOOD SERVICE brings its own reward. Our efforts to please our customers find reflection in their good words of recommendation for us.

HOW true this is may be shown in our ever-widening circle of loyal and active friends.

WE believe that our power for good in this community is in direct proportion to the number of people whom we are permitted to help.

AND YOU—if you will—can play a most important part in extending the influence of your bank, simply by telling your friends about us and inviting them to come in.

WILL you remember to do this when you can? Your friends will thank you no less heartily than we will.
